

Modern slavery act compliance statement

Introduction from the board of Carlsberg UK limited (Carlsberg)

We are proud of the steps we have taken to combat slavery and human trafficking within our supply chain to date, and are committed to continually improving our practices. Slavery can take many forms including forced labour, human trafficking and child labour. We are opposed to all forms of servitude and oppression and will continue to work to prevent modern slavery in our supply chains.

What is the modern slavery act and how does it affect carlsberg?

The Modern Slavery Act (Act) is a pioneering piece of legislation that was passed into law by the UK Parliament in 2015. The objective of the Act is to encourage greater transparency for consumers and amongst business with regards to steps taken to combat slavery and human trafficking within supply chains. Following the introduction of the Act, companies that exceed certain thresholds must complete an annual statement which explains the steps that the organisation has taken during the preceding financial year to address slavery and human trafficking. As one of the largest brewers in the UK, Carlsberg's statement is set out below and includes an overview of our company structure and current practices.
